

Crime Study Centre

www.e-keme.gr

Open Call

Participation in research on Greek debt and violations of human rights in Greece

The Crime Study Centre (CSC, Greece) in collaboration with the Organized Crime Observatory (OCO, Switzerland) and the Northeastern University of Boston (USA) has undertaken to contribute to the research proposal of the Professor of Criminology and Criminal Justice (Northeastern University of Boston) Dr. Nikos Passas, on Greek debt and human rights violations in Greece.

The main objective of this project is to provide an in-depth, accurate and scientific description of the financial crisis in Greece and, most importantly, the conditions and measures introduced through a series of governments made up of different political parties since 2009. In this context, the research group will explore the extent to which their effects can be analyzed as violations of constitutional and human rights for the people living in Greece.

The above project will focus on desk and field research, including by conducting interviews with those responsible in the design and implementation of memoranda and specific policies. The project is due to begin in September 2018 and its estimated duration is set at eight (8) months with the option of extending for two (2) more months.

Participation in the research is, at this stage, on a voluntary basis. The above consortium will actively seek funding both in Greece and abroad.

Minimum qualifications for the applicants

- Bachelor Degree on social sciences, law, politics, economics (studies or experience in criminology considered as an asset)
- Postgraduate Studies will be especially welcome
- Very good working knowledge of English language
- Computer skills: Use of MS-Word, MS-Excel, Internet

Crime Study Centre (CSC),
33, Stadiou & Pasmazoglou Str., 8th floor, 10559, Athens (GR),
T.: +30 6908233371, E.:crime@e-keme.gr

Knowledge of the Statistical Package for the Social Sciences (SPSS) will be taken into account and considered as an asset too.

Also, applicants shall take into account that the average workload per researcher is estimated at a minimum of ten (10) hours per week.

Deadline for applications: Monday, July 23, 2018

Interested persons are kindly requested to submit an application form and curriculum vitae to the following email: crime@e-keme.gr, by Monday, July 23, 2018 at the latest.

Following the evaluation of the applications, short-listed applicants will be invited to an oral interview.

Important note

Expressions of interest could consider even after the deadline, but with the understanding that there will be no guaranteed participation